(INTRO)

(1)            I thought about a friend today,            I haven't seen for years,
                         I almost smiled
I thought about the reasons,            That caused us to lose touch,
                         Couldn't reconcile
Sometimes things just happen,            It's not a perfect world
Someone gets experience,            And someone gets the girl
We're here for such a short time,            Life's too short to quarrel

(CHORUS)    We're here for such a short time,            Life's too short to quarrel
The bonds we make are priceless,            In a vast, imperfect world
Whatever you and I believe in,            May not be a perfect match
But we're here for such a short time,            What we do with love will last

(2)            I thought about a friend today,            Our flame had once burned true,
                         But that was yesterday
I thought about regrets I have,            I tried to stay in touch,
                         It wouldn't work with today
Sometimes it's not possible,            To join present with the past
You try to do the right thing,            But the two worlds only clash
We're here for such a short time,            It all goes by so fast

(CHORUS) We're here for such a short time,                      It all goes by so fast
(b)                      The bonds we make are priceless,                      In the present, and the past
                            Whatever you and I believe in,                      May not be a perfect match
                            But we're here for such a short time,                      What we do with love will last

(SOLO)                      We're here for such a short time

(3)                      You and I together,                      With commitments that we've made,
                            We share a history
                            But anything can happen,                      Feelings sometimes change,
                            There's no guarantee
                            If ever we should break up,                      And go our separate ways
                            I never would stop loving you,                      Until my dying day
                            We're here for such a short time,                      I'll appreciate today

(CHORUS) We're here for such a short time,                      So appreciate today
(c)                      The bonds we make are priceless,                      Though some go separate ways
                            Whatever you and I believe in,                      May not be a perfect match
                            But we're here for such a short time,                      What we do with love will last

(OUTRO)                      We're here for such a short time,                      What we do with love will last
                            We're here for such a short time,                      What we do with love will last
                            We're here for such a short time,                      What we do with love will last
